Transitions

Each year the policy council reviews and approves a written transition plan. The plan requires that a "child's transition" form be completed to record the transition readiness activities to be carried out prior to the end of the school year. Specific behaviors and skills needed in kindergarten (carrying food trays, opening milk cartons, taking turns, waiting, etc.) are noted and individualized. A similar activity facilitates the transition from Early Head Start to Head Start.

Each school district in the service area signs a transition agreement in which they agree that twice a year Head Start preschool and kindergarten teachers, parents and appropriate agency representatives will meet to discuss specific needs of specific children to preview what transitioning Head Start children will be capable of at the beginning of kindergarten. Head Start children visit kindergarten classrooms they will be attending. Some of the kindergarten teachers are able to come to head start for get acquainted visits.

SCICAP Head Start Child Assessment Summary 2016-2017

Graph Below

Growth was shown in all areas.

We utilize Teaching Strategies GOLD Curriculum throughout the year. The five domains that are tracked by the teachers in our centers are: Math; Fine Motor; Language; Literacy, Social Emotional and Cognitive. The following tables summarize the data from Widely Held Expectations for fall 2016 through spring 2017.

The data shows that overall as a program, our children have made significant growth in all five domain areas. Throughout the year, teachers focused on skills to get children school ready, and this graph shows that children are becoming school ready by the end of the school year.

Throughout the year, we had CLASS coaching sessions in small groups. Teachers videotaped a lesson and as a group they watched the video. Teachers discussed how their peers did according to CLASS as well as how they could have added math/literacy/science into the lesson that they watched. Throughout these coaching sessions we also discussed studies and how teachers needed to be more intentional with incorporating those domain areas that were lower in the fall and winter. With teachers being more intentional it increased our math and literacy scores by the spring finalization.
